Jeanne Nuechterlein  Location and the experience of early Netherlandish art

All photos by author unless otherwise noted.

Figure 3. Nuremberg, St Claire.
Jeanne Nuechterlein  Location and the experience of early Netherlandish art

Figure 4. Nuremberg, St Laurence.
Figure 5. Partially reconstructed farm house from Vorselaar, c. 1600. Bokrijk Open-Air Museum.
Jeanne Nuechterlein  Location and the experience of early Netherlandish art

Figure 6. Walraversijde: archaeological site in foreground with four reconstructed buildings upper right and museum upper left.

Figure 7. Walraversijde: dish with head of John the Baptist in museum.
Figure 8. Walraversijde: dish with head of John the Baptist in reconstructed house.
Figure 9. Villers-la-Ville, Cistercian abbey remains, west end of cloister, facing north.

Figure 10. Villers-la-Ville, Cistercian abbey remains photographed from a train crossing the site, from the south-east.
Figure 11. Ten Duinen, Cisterian abbey remains. The central foreground long rectangular room was the refectory, the cloister is farther to the right, the church was at the far background, and the abbot’s lodgings at the left edge. The colourful Cracking Art Group sculptures can be seen in the cloister and near the abbot’s lodgings.
Figure 12. Vieil-Hesdin, site of Hesdin palace and town: pentagonal outline of medieval town and castle seen from Google Earth satellite photography. Arrow shows location of Figure 13 photograph.
Figure 13. Vieil-Hesdin, site of Hesdin palace: palace area from northeast.
Figure 14 Ávila, Real Monasterio de Santo Tomás: view of church from south-west end of nave with Pedro Berruguete’s Retable of St Thomas Aquinas, 1493-99, on the high altar. Photograph © The Metropolitan Museum of Art: William Keighley.
Figure 15 Pedro Berruguete, Retable of St Peter Martyr, 1493-99, oil on wood. Madrid: Museo del Prado.
Figure 16. Tapestry in oblique light. Chateauneuf-en-Auxois: château.

Figure 17. Millefleurs tapestry, detail, c. 1466, 3 x 7 m. Bern: Historisches Museum. Photograph: Bern Historisches Museum.
Figure 18. Leuven, town hall: small Gothic room with Frans Meerts’s copies of Dieric Bouts’s Justice of Otto III, 1888-89. The large Gothic room is through the doorway to the right.
Figure 19 Leuven, town hall: large Gothic room where the intended four panels of the Bouts commission were originally to be hung.
Figure 20. Goossen van der Weyden, Colibrant Altarpiece, c. 1516-17, oil on wood. Lier: St Gummarus.
Figure 21. Lier, St Gummarus: the Colibrant Altarpiece’s original chapel can be seen in the right background.
Jeanne Nuechterlein  Location and the experience of early Netherlandish art

Figure 22. Lier, St Gummarus: chapel with Goossen van der Weyden, Colibrant Altarpiece, c. 1516-17, oil on wood.
Figure 23. Lier, St Gummarus: view from the north side of the ambulatory (next to the current location of the Colibrant Altarpiece) towards the transept.
Figure 24. Beaune, Hôtel-Dieu: main ward with chapel at far end.

Jeanne Nuechterlein   Location and the experience of early Netherlandish art

Figure 26. Jean Delemer, Virgin Mary and console from Annunciation group, c. 1427-28, polychromed stone. Tournai: St. Quentin.
Figure 27. Jean Delemer, Gabriel and console from Annunciation group, c. 1427-28, polychromed stone. Tournai: St. Quentin.
Figure 28. Tournai, St. Quentin, with Jean Delemer, Annunciation, c. 1427-28, polychromed stone.
Figure 29. Leuven, St Pieter: choir screen, c. 1488-90, polychromed stone, and Jan Borreman, Crucifixion group, 1491-1500, polychromed wood.
Figure 30. Leuven, St Pieter: view towards choir from nave.
Jeanne Nuechterlein  Location and the experience of early Netherlandish art

Figure 31. Walcourt, St Materne: choir screen, 1531, polychromed stone, and Crucifixion group, 15th century (lower three figures 19th century), polychromed wood.
Jeanne Nuechterlein  Location and the experience of early Netherlandish art

Figure 32. Zoutleeuw, St Leonard: view from nave towards choir, with Jan Mertens’s Crucifixion group, 1479-82, polychromed wood, and in foreground Marianum, 1534, polychromed wood.
Figure 33. Zoutleeuw, St Leonard: view from north transept up to crossing with Crucifixion group by Jan Mertens, 1479-80, polychromed wood, and south transept with Last Judgment wall painting by Aert de Maeler, 1478.
Figure 34. Zoutleeuw, St Leonard: upper part of paschal candelabrum by Renier van Thienen, 1483, bronze, and beyond to Crucifixion group by Jan Mertens, 1479-82, polychromed wood.
Figure 35. Jan Borreman, detail of Crucifixion, 1491-1500, polychromed wood. Leuven: St Pieter.